CLIFTON FORGE NEGRO SCHOOL

Young Colored Minister Teach ing Scholars to Be Good Servants.

Says Booker Washington Is Meddling Too Much in Politics for People's Good.

(By WALTER EDWARD HARRIS.) WASHINGTON, D. C., February 9 .-WASHINGTON, D. C., February 2.—
"The People's High Industrial School" is the rather high-sounding title of an institution at Clifton Force, Va., in which Washington people are becoming interested, through the efforts of the head of the school, and some of the white board of visitors there of Rev. George E. Fountain, a young colored man, who is the paster of the colored Baptist Church at Clifton Force, is the principal of the school, and has been here interesting people in it for a week or so.

The school has about a hundred inmates, boys and girls. Its object is

The school has about a hundred inmates, boys and girls. Its object is to train negro youth for domestic service. Pupils are taught to read and write, and given an elementary knowledge of arithmetic. Further than that the principal makes no effort to train his pupils intellectually.

"I try to make my pupils honest, and to give them a sense of honor," said the Rev. Fountath. "I believe that if the negro scrvant were given a strong sense of honor ho would prove an acceptable scrvant. He is not acceptable now, as a rule. The trouble which the people of the South, where the negro predominates, are having in obtaining good servants is disheartening to conprecommates, are naving in obtaining good servants is disheartening to contemplate, when I think of the splendid opportunity which the field of domestic service offers the negro. The demand for farm laborers in the South, which vill not, is also a condition which con-the negro could supply and which he will not, is also a condition which confronts us.

"I am trying to teach the negre to work. I am not trying to make a teacher of him. I do not try to make of him a lawyer, or doctor, to make him bolieve he may aspire to be a Senator, or Representative, or Governor, I am doing the best I can to teach him to work with his hands in a field where his services are needed. I am trying to make good cooks and maids of the girls. I am trying to have them taught how to do the work wanted of them, and I am trying to give them principle which will not only make them honest, but which will make them honest, but which will make them honest, but which will make them honest, and do their work to the best of their ability, and stick to their positions. If a girl trained in my school should leave her mistress without so much as an hour's notice, even, I should feel that we had failed to make of her the kind of servant we are trying to make.

"This is a white man's country. The negro ought to think of it as his to rule. It is his in the sense that he was born here. The white man has always ruled wherever he has been. The negro must do the work at his hand. The field of service is his if he will only take it. I never talk polities to my pupils, nor to my congregation, for that matter. The negro nover bettered his condition by knowing about politics. The less he has to do with it the better. Bad leaders have been the curse of the race. I am trying all the fime to make the negro think better of the white man, and the white man of the South is the best friend the negro ever had.

"I want to have a general convertion."

f the negro race in this country, a covention which shall be different form all other negro conventions which ave been held. The others have been have been held. The others have been agitation conventions. I want us to have a convention which shall be a peace convention. I want the convention to be devoted to discussion of means whereby the state of feeling between the white man and the black man of the South may be restored to what it was in the days of slavery, when the negro was proud to copy all that was best in the tmanners and habits of his master. Wise leadership, and schools such as the one we are trying to build up at Clifton Forge, will do much to bring back those days."

Brownsville affair, he said, when the subject was introduced. "I do not think the negroes are doing themselves any good by discussing that subject. But I will say this; the President never does the negro race a service by appointing one of them to effice. Such appointments always create a sentiment against the black man on the part of the whites and do the whole negro race harm. Let the white man hold the offices. I am not trying to fit the negro for office-holding. I am trying to teach him to work with his hands, and earn an honest living and a good living."

Regarding Booker T. Washington, Rev. Fountain said that ashington is doing a "fine work, but he goes into ploities entirely too much."

About a dozen of the prominent white men of Clifton Porge are members of the beard of trustees of the school, and many of them have contributed to its support. Money to keep it going is badly needed.
